The lower end of queen street did not start to develop until the railway arrived in 1816. The first properties built were the railway inn and about 8-10 terraced style houses.

The queens hotel followed and queen street then developed right through to the drum clock (lloyds bank). This picture was taken around 1900,both shops on the left hand side of the picture is now the eastern eye. The war memorial was built after the 1st world war, completed around 1922. Before this there stood a large oak tree this was taken down around 1919 and sold for 1 shilling (5 pence) To raise money toward the war memorial.

Picture of the Queens Hotel, originally named 'south devon tea gardens' was built about 1847
